

Jon Schwartzbauer, D.C. Appointed President of Sherman College

Sherman College recently announced that Jonathan Schwartzbauer, DC, will take over as the new president beginning in August of this year.

Schwartzbauer and his wife, Mitzi, a clinical sciences faculty member at Sherman, ran Schwartzbauer Straight Chiropractic Center in Mahtomedi, Minn., for five years before joining Sherman College faculty in 2002. The couple also served as team chiropractors for the St. Paul Saints, a minor league baseball team in their home state of Minnesota.

Schwartzbauer was selected in early 2006 to lead the launch and development of Sherman College's Leadership and Practice Management Institute (LPMI). As LPMI director, he worked to create a culture of ever-improving leadership within the chiropractic profession. He instituted Sherman College's Success Colloquia, a series of seminars designed to enhance leadership and practice management skills for members of the chiropractic profession as well as Sherman students and faculty. He also laid the groundwork for a student leadership program on campus.

Schwartzbauer was named vice president for academic affairs in December 2006. In addition to the doctor of chiropractic degree he earned in 1997, Schwartzbauer holds a B.S. from Excelsior College. His appointment as president follows a nationwide search and comprehensive selection process that provided the college with a broad array of talented candidates.

"I am committed to being a faithful steward to the college's history and working with the college community as we address the opportunities in chiropractic education today," Schwartzbauer said. "I look forward to working with our talented and dedicated board, faculty, staff, students, alumni and supporters to strengthen Sherman College and the chiropractic profession."

Schwartzbauer says his priorities include increasing enrollment and fundraising at the college. "I am grateful for the trust the Board has placed in me," he said. "I intend to put my heart and soul into Sherman College."

Sherman Board Chair Cindy Pekofsky, D.C., said the trustees look forward to working with Schwartzbauer as he continues to lead and advance the college's mission of being the leader in bringing straight chiropractic to the world. "We are excited to welcome Dr. Schwartzbauer as Sherman College's fourth president, and we look forward to the great things we will accomplish for Sherman College and for the chiropractic profession under his leadership and guidance," Pekofsky said.

Pekofsky also stated that the continued service of Sherman College's Interim president and founder, Thomas A. Gelardi, D.C., will be invaluable in the coming months as he helps provide a seamless transition to Dr. Schwartzbauer's dynamic leadership. "The board is extremely grateful for Dr. Gelardi's dedicated service to the college and for his many contributions to the college's successes during his tenure as interim president for the past two years," she said.
