with opera singers, music and dancing. One doctor described it as one of the most "elegant and enjoyable banquets I have ever attended. We felt like royalty!"

Rome 2002 was truly a powerful, memorable event for all. Student doctor Patrick Frain wrote in Palmer's student newspaper, The Beacon, "The ICA Symposium took me to a higher rung on my personal ladder of success and it made me become a better student for today, and a better doctor for tomorrow...As the old saying goes, 'Rome wasn't built in a day.' Neither will chiropractic be. All we know is that the ancient ruins of Rome have withstood the test of thousands of years of time. Will chiropractic? It's only up to you and your involvement. The ICA is there for you, as was clearly demonstrated in this symposium. Take advantage of future opportunities, and I guarantee you won't be disappointed."

"We appreciate the Italian Association inviting us to Rome and helping us locally with logistical details. We had a very successful event and we hope the presence of hundreds of chiropractors for a serious, educational program helped reinforce their efforts to gain recognition for chiropractic," said ICA President Dr. D.D. Humber. (See related story under INTERNATIONAL, page 18)

ICA intends to keep moving forward globally and at their annual meeting held in May, the ICA Board of Directors passed a resolution to look into holding a 3rd International Symposium. ICA has received invitations from several countries for its next symposium and when country and dates have been confirmed, information will be posted on ICA's website www.chiropractic.org.
